

slople

WHERE ARE YOU GOING TO FLY TODAY?

Every slope-soaring enthusiast knows the problem:

You have a free day in prospect, the planes are ready - but where will you go? Maybe there is a slope near you that you don't know about? Is the wind coming from the right direction, what about the weather? How do I get there, what's important to know?

For all these issues, there's now one simple answer: Slople.com!

Free to use and available everywhere.

This slopefinder is unique. Showing the wind and weather conditions of over 13'000 flying spots around the world - and its database is growing every day, thanks to users like you!

You can contribute!

Each user can contribute in a few seconds to make slople.com better, more complete and comprehensive. A new slope can be submitted in less than 60 seconds, both at home using a Mac or PC or on the road, using your Google Android- or Apple iOS-device - guaranteed! You can also add additional information to existing slopes and correct any errors in only a few seconds.

Slople is free and will always remain so.

No registration is necessary - you can start using it and improving it right away. Have fun at the slop(l)e!

<http://www.slople.com/>

